

HIGHEST POINT IS REACHED

In the Great Flood of Ohio River at Evansville Since 1884

HUNDREDS OF HOMES

Under Water and Large Number of Families are Marooned—Backwater Menaces Factories.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 17.—The highest water and greatest flood distress and damage Evansville has known since 1884 came last night with the gauge reading 46.3 feet, a rise of 4 inches in the past 24 hours.

Water is in hundreds of homes in the North, South and West Sides, and the Pigeon Creek backwater is menacing factories a mile from the river.

Direct communication with Louisville by rail was cut off when the Southern railroad was forced to send trains to French Lick and detour by way of the Monon into Louisville.

Water covers the belt line tracks at Fulton avenue, while for a mile the main tracks of the L. and N. and Big Four railroads have but 10 inches' margin from being flooded. The mercantile places along Water and First streets suffered heavier than ever when water filled the cellars, due to the enormous pressure on the sewers.

A cigar factory closed, throwing 300 persons out of employment. A dozen big manufacturers have a scant three inches between them and the flooding of their establishments. Along Ohio street for a block from the river there is much damage to residences, some of which are standing with four feet of water over the first floors.

To add to the confusion, a family quarantined because of smallpox had to be moved out.

Men worked all day along the river front below Ninth avenue making a surf barrier around thousands of dollars' worth of lumber which is ready to float.

The city relief authorities, stretching themselves to the utmost to care for the flood sufferers in the southeast portion of the city, secured aid from many sources. The traveling men of the city formed a relief association and also furnished and distributed supplies.

Two more suburbs suffered severely yesterday by the further spread of the flood blanket. In Fairview Addition, beyond the fair grounds, a new residence section, scores of homes went under water unexpectedly, and calls for relief were many. These people were totally unprepared for the rush of the flood and had no idea they would be inundated. Homes are under water and relief will have to be given immediately.

From all the inundated suburbs the flood sufferers poured out faster than the city could care for them. Many people were taken into private homes and given shelter and beds. That the distress in the lowlands is worse than had been thought was the statement made by Joseph Williams of Green River Island, five miles above Evansville.

Williams, after trying vainly for four days to get out of his flooded home, managed to hail the steamer Spotsville, which was out of her regular course and was cutting through the old river bed. Williams put on the boat his aged mother, who for five days had been kept in the attic with a broken leg, there being no way to get a doctor. Williams also brought out his wife and their five children, the youngest ten months old. He told the city relief committee, after he was housed at the Municipal Lodging House, that there are a hundred families in the upper bottoms on the Indiana side in acute distress.

The Rockfort Traction company has abandoned service, thus cutting off the last line, either steam or electric, tapping the river above Evansville.

No hope of the river falling today is held out by Forecaster Brand. River men fear a gale. Governor Ralston has telephoned Mayor Heilman, offering aid. It may be accepted, especially for patrol purposes.

All the Cumberland Telephone company's lines to the south were broken last night when a big section of the river road, carrying the poles, caved into the river.

The river packet Speed arrived yesterday from Calhoun, Ky., to get food and supplies for that district, which has been cut off from the world for a week by the flood. Other towns which cannot be reached are Rockport and Cannelton, Ind., and Hawesville and Owensburg, Ky.

DRIFTWOOD MENACE AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Jan. 17.—Yesterday and last night brought hours of suspense for the flood sufferers. Night came with the government gauge still recording 61 feet. The thousands who had been driven from their homes watched anxiously for the effect that the rain would have on the Ohio.

A rise of a few inches arrived early this morning, but the weather bureau sent out assurances that this was only temporary, and the result of the local rains. Near the Little Miami the Ohio rose about an inch early last evening, but this rise was not perceptible to unofficial observers west of Torrence road. It was due to the runoff of the Little Miami river, which started on another rampage yesterday as a result of heavy rain near Loveland.

A high wind blowing from the south caused considerable anxiety among flood victims last night. At the Cincinnati Gym grounds, in the East End, the drift came down in such quantities that residents of Watson street appealed to the police. The Sixth Police district sent a squad of men to the scene, and they made a thorough inspection, but decided nothing could be done. It was claimed that the drift was forced by booms built around the Gym grounds. Groundkeeper Matt McCormack of the Gym, took the police and city officials out in boats and convinced them the drift was being blown ashore by the wind.

Many residents of the flooded section patrolled the water surrounding their homes all last night, warding off the driftwood with poles and grappling hooks. In spite of all precautions much property was damaged. In several places huge logs pierced the sides of tables and outbuilding in the flooded territory, and many frame houses were damaged.

The rare spectacle of a wicker basket containing the body of a flood victim being hauled out of the second story of a house into a skiff which conveyed it to shore was witnessed at the bottom of Second street yesterday morning, when the remains of Wm. H. Nichols, 46, a laborer, who had succumbed to pneumonia, was transferred from his home at 466 East Second street to the Busse & Borgmann undertaking establishment.

Nichols' death was hastened by the dampness in the flooded district. The man's widow and four children were given shelter in a house on Freemont avenue.

GAS DERRICK ON WEHRLE FARM BURNS TO GROUND

The derrick of a gas well now being drilled on the Wehrle farm west of this city, was burned Thursday night when the drill struck a pocket of gas at a point less than 200 feet below the surface of the ground.

The well had only been started on Monday of this week. The drilling was progressing at the usual speed when, at a depth of only 170 feet, a pocket was struck. The rush of the inflammable vapor, coming as it did, at a time altogether unexpected, set fire to the derrick, practically consuming it.

TURFMAN LEAVES OVER $10,000,000 TO HIS WIDOW

New York, Jan. 17.—The will of James R. Keene, veteran stock market operator and turfman, which has been filed for probate, leaves his estate in its entirety to his widow, Sarah J. Keene. The value of the estate is estimated at between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

"I have intentionally omitted making any special provision for the benefit of my son, Foxhall and my daughter, Jessie," the will reads, "relying upon my wife to hereafter make such provision for them as may be proper, enjoying upon her, however, to be guided in this and any other matter relating to my estate by the judgment of my executors."

With the will Mr. Keene's lawyer filed an affidavit in which he said that Mr. Keene had left no real estate and that the value of his personal property exceeded $10,000,000.

WHAT IS IT?

SACRE! VOILA! INSULT!

Clemenceau and Poincaré, Relics of French Empire Spirit

WILL FIGHT A DUEL

Lots of Fussing Over Election of President—People Waking Up to Need of Direct Elections.

Versailles, France, Jan. 17.—Premier Poincaré was today elected president of France by the National Assembly in session here. The new president of the French Republic is one of the strongest men who has participated in politics in the republic in recent years. He is 53 years old and has been in politics since his early youth, having been elected deputy in 1887.

Versailles, France, Jan. 17.—Premier Raymond Poincaré was insulted by ex-Premier Georges Clemenceau at the opening of the national congress for the election of a president. Poincaré at once appointed Aristide Briand, the minister of justice, and L. L. Klotz, minister of finance, to act as his second and to arrange for a duel.

Considerable commotion was caused by a stranger seeking to obtain entrance into the palace. When he was stopped by a gendarme and asked his business, he drew a revolver and shouted: "This election should not take place." He was at once disarmed and arrested.

A force of 200 policemen, drawn from all the cities of France, was brought here this morning, as well as detachments of troops of all arms, while the garrison of Versailles was confined to its quarters.

The national assembly was opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Antonin Dubost, president of the senate, who read the decree of convocation. Everybody present was listening with strained attention when suddenly a thunderous voice shouted: "We protest against the election of the president of the republic by parliament instead of by the people."

The assembly was agitated anew by a shout from a Socialist deputy, "Down with the empire!" The Republicans replied, "Long live the republic!"

Senator Dubost gradually restored order. The incident between Poincaré and Clemenceau arose out of a letter sent by the former premier to Mr. Poincaré, the contents of which were considered offensive by Poincaré. The premier promptly sent his two seconds to ask for an explanation, and unless this should prove satisfactory, under the customs of France, the incident will result in a duel.

MAJORITY OF 110 FOR HOME RULE

In the House of Commons is Followed by Demonstration of the Irish

BEFORE UPPER HOUSE

Where Its Fate is Sealed—House Crowded to Hear the Brilliant Speeches.

London, Jan. 17.—After a long, stern battle, the home rule bill passed the house of commons last night by a majority of 119. Later it was read for the first time in the house of lords.

There were two divisions in the lower house. Mr. Balfour's motion for its rejection was defeated, 258 to 268, while the third reading was carried by a vote of 367 to 257, one member of each side having left the house in the interval.

The result of the division was too much of a foregone conclusion for a tremendous demonstration, but Irishmen inside and outside of the house did their best and assisted by the Liberals and Laborites, gave the measure for which they had waited and worked so long a good send-off on its way to the house of lords, where its fate is certainly sealed.

The division was preceded by another series of brilliant speeches by the political leaders, among whom were Frederick E. Smith and the solicitor general, Sir John A. Simon, two of the cleverest among the younger members, and the veterans John E. Redmond, Timothy Healy and Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland.

The house was crowded throughout the day. The Nationalists were only one man short of their full strength. Several of the older Nationalists, who are seldom able to attend, came over from Ireland for the division.

The Liberals and Laborites, too, turned out in force, and the Unionists were not far below their total membership. The galleries were filled to their capacity.

When the figures were announced the Nationalists waved hats, handkerchiefs and papers and cheered lustily for Premier Asquith and Mr. Redmond. The latter, who is usually impassive, was carried away by the enthusiasm of his followers and entered into the spirit of the demonstrations as effusively as they.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, declared that no bill which included Ulster without Ulster's consent could ever become a law. The bill as it was could not stand for a single year. Once they gave Mr. Redmond a parliament in Dublin, he could alter it in any way he pleased.

Compared with 1885 and 1893, the speaker added, the demand now for home rule had decreased, while the hostility against it had intensified.

The real demonstration came from the Nationalist party, which had 80 votes to sell. The Unionist party, he said, would remove that temptation when it got the chance by reducing the Irish representation at Westminster to just proportions. He challenged Mr. Birrell to say that the bill could be imposed upon Ulster without bloodshed.

"No rebellion would be better justified," the opposition leader declared. "The men of Ulster are ready to give up their lives at the hands of British soldiers. If they shoot down 100 in Belfast, 2000 will be ready next day to share their fate."

BURN THE HOME RULE BILL.

Belfast, Jan. 17.—Thousands of Orangemen and members of Unionist clubs held demonstrations outside city hall last evening and burned a copy of the home rule bill. Bands paraded the streets until midnight. There was much firing of revolvers, mostly blank cartridges, but one man was shot in the back and is in a critical condition.

TOOK BABY FROM FUNNY LOOKING BOX

New York, Jan. 17.—A dozen boys playing football with a box in an empty lot in Brooklyn today sat down to rest.

"That's a funny looking box," said one of them. "Let's see what's inside."

They untied the strings and a four days' old baby boy, naked and to all appearances dead, rolled to the ground. A policeman took the babe to a hospital and a half hour later it was crying lustily. It will probably live.

BEAR SKIN WAS GARB OF "MACK'S" FRIDAY ARREST

Headquarters Officer George McClure qualified Thursday afternoon as a capable customer when he responded to a call sent in from the home of "Dick" Raison in Sansberry street. The call sent to headquarters informed the officer that Raison had changed his family from the home and was parading the streets clad in an ugly snow and his underdrawers.

When the patrol wagon reached the scene of the fracas, Raison had again taken refuge in the house. Wagonman McClure entered the place and all he could find on first search was Raison's underwear, much bedraggled by his cavorting around in the mud, piled on the snowy tablecloth of the dining room table. Raison was not in sight.

After a thorough search of the first and second floors, the officer finally made his way to the attic where he found Raison shivering with cold, attired only in a bear skin.

Then came the task of attiring the man for his ride through the downtown streets to the city prison. After a half hour's search McClure finally found a shirt and a pair of trousers which he required Raison to don forthwith.

He objected to being taken from his home but he responded to the "persuasion" of the officer and was finally landed in jail, hatless, coatless and shoeless. In police court he drew a fine of $5 and costs on a charge of being drunk.

QUIT CALOMEL! Thousands Are Turning From This Dangerous Drug

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect, almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long sought for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet.

The results of 17 years experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They oil the bowels, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit that is enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities, 10c and 25c per box.

A Mystery

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Herman Beck was a guide in the Swiss Alps. Old Gottlieb Swinger, the cheesemaker, had a very pretty daughter, Anna, whom Herman wished to marry, but her father would not consent. "I have nothing but a few cheese presses," he said to her, "a dozen goats and this chalet over our heads. I can consequently give you no dowry. Herman has nothing except what he can earn guiding tourists. Instead of having a son-in-law to relieve me of providing for one of my children I shall likely in time have grandchildren on my hands, for Herman is liable at any time to slide down to his death with an avalanche or fall over a precipice."

Anna gave this reply of her father to Herman, who cast his eyes thoughtfully up the mountain side, then said: "Tell your father that whether I marry you or do not marry you I will provide for you."

When Anna told her father that he exclaimed: "Herman is a fool. He dreams dreams as high up in the clouds as the peaks he climbs. How could he provide for you?"

The girl made no reply to this, for she did not know what Herman meant. She knew that he was full of strange ideas, and she was impressed with the sad but resolute expression on his face when he spoke the words that she had repeated to her father. However, there was nothing to be done in the matter, for she had no idea of disobeying her father by marrying Herman.

One day an English gentleman engaged Herman to make an ascent with him. The two started out together and when they got up to where the climbing was dangerous Herman united them by a rope. While moving along over a narrow path with a precipice on one side the tourist slipped and fell on a side of the divide which was but some twenty feet above a ledge. The shock, however, caused Herman to lose his balance, and he fell on the other side and hung over the precipice. His ax slipped from his hands, and he heard it strike far below. Fortunately, the rope held, but Herman knew that would not long bear the strain and any rubbing against the sharp rocks on the edge of the divide would surely cause it to break. For this reason he could not use it to climb up on, and, having no ax, he could not cut steps in the ice. He called out to the tourist:

"We cannot remain long in this position, for as soon as night comes and the temperature falls we will freeze. If I cut the rope you will fall on the ledge and can descend the mountain. I would like to sell you my life for money. It will enable you to live."

The Englishman would not at first consent to any such plan, asserting that he would blame himself and be blamed for accepting his life on such terms. But Herman told him that the small strands that composed the rope were gradually giving way and it would soon break, so the tourist finally said that he would accede to Herman's terms, though he could not see how the latter could be benefited by money after his death. Then Herman told him it was to be paid to Anna, the daughter of old Gottlieb, the cheesemaker in the valley.

"I will give her," said the tourist, "half of what I possess, or £10,000."

"She will not know what to do with so much," said Herman, "but you can settle that with her father."

The tourist heard nothing more from Herman. Some minutes passed, awful minutes, during which the Englishman knew that a soul was preparing for death. The surrounding mountains seemed a part of eternity, the silence that of infinite space. Then suddenly he dropped, landing on the ledge below.

For awhile his mind was so filled with the terrible fate of his guide that he could think of nothing else. Then, realizing that he must save himself in order to keep his part of the contract he had made, he got up and, walking along the ledge, found a place some distance below where he could regain the path by which he and his guide had ascended. Night came on, and he lost his way. He would have sunk down in the snow and permitted the cold to end his life had he not been buoyed by a desire to pay the money he had promised. Indeed, when he thought that he must live under the cloud of his guide's death and his own safety he would have preferred to die.

He stopped to rest and was getting drowsy when he saw a light in a chalet window some distance below. Rising, he struggled on and when a door was opened to him felt on the door insensible.

The next day he descended into the valley and appeared at the Gottlieb home. When Anna saw him come in alone and looking haggard she knew her lover had perished and swooned.

The tourist told them that Herman had gone down into a precipice, then, without further explanation, called for a notary and executed papers transferring to Anna Gottlieb property in England worth $50,000.

"I wonder," said the awe-stricken cheesemaker, "how Herman knew that the opportunity would occur for him to make this provision for my daughter."

Herman Beck was the only person who could throw any light on this, and since he was dead it must remain a secret.

Only a fool will be satisfied to have a debt paid in compliments.

FOR DELICATE CHILDREN

A Mother's Letter to Mothers.

Mrs. E. W. Cooper of Bloomfield, N. J., says: "My child, seven years old, had a bad cold and was weak and quite run down in health. She had been in this condition for about six weeks when I began giving her Vinol. It was a wonderful help to the child, breaking up her cold quickly and building up her strength besides. I have also found Vinol a most excellent tonic for keeping up the children's strength during a stage of whooping cough."

Vinol is a wonderful combination of two world-famed tonics—the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil and iron for the blood, therefore it is a perfectly safe medicine for children, because it is not a patent medicine, everything in it is printed in every package, so mothers may know what they are giving their little ones.

Therefore we ask every mother of a weak, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our guarantee. Frank D. Hall, Druggist, Newark, O.

P. S. Our Saxo Salve is truly wonderful for Eczema. We guarantee it.

AMUSEMENTS

SOME CHORUS IN "THE PINK LADY"

Charles Marks, the man who comes into Manager Johnson's office and talks about "The Pink Lady" company, announced for Thursday, January 23, at the Auditorium, fervently claims that, when there is anything to be said about chorus girls, he is the only man on earth that is really worth listening to.

Having announced himself with becoming modesty, he proceeds to go into a trance, in the course of which he remarks sotto voce, as if he were afraid that someone might hear him and spread the good news: "It is a fact that our girls are a strictly Eastern product. They don't grow them West or South. The only and original New Amsterdam theatre chorus is without a doubt the only bona fide feminine galaxy worthy of exemplifying Ponce de Leon's dream of youth and beauty." Sounds pretty good, doesn't it, for a man who never knew dear old Ponce?

According to this young gentleman who prides himself more on his veracity than he does on the cut of his clothes, "The Pink Lady" company does not carry a chorus, or at least the young ladies who participate in the stage pictures and sing the ensemble songs, are not known as "chorus girls," but as "Pink Camerons," which is certainly much more poetic. "For," continued the nervous exciter of public interest, "there is not, theatrically speaking, one well seasoned chorus girl in our company. We simply wouldn't have them."

"Each and every chorus girl in the New Amsterdam theatre, New York, choral court has been thoroughly taught and drilled by the able dramatic and musical instructor, Julian Mitchell. We gather our recruits from the social circles of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston and thereabouts, and in our ranks we have at least a dozen college graduates."

"With our management beauty and youth are the most essential qualities and no chorus girl who has 'roughed it' one or more seasons on the road can lay claim to those qualities. It is said, but it is true. As a consequence, each member of our chorus glories in the excitement of her first year's experience on the stage."

"Other requisite qualifications are talent and ambition. No stage struck females for us. Each one who is deemed possible has to pass a thorough examination, and take a course of at least six weeks' training before she can get as far as the chorus. In fact the New Amsterdam theatre, New York, has the name of being an operatic kindergarten. Strange as it may seem, Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger have carried this iron-clad rule of feminine youth even into the ranks of the principals. It is a known fact that they have under contract seven-eighths of the youngest operatic actresses now on the stage, foremost of which Olga DeBaugh, Tessa Costa, Lucille Carter and Elizabeth Macatee, who will be seen in "The Pink Lady." Olga DeBaugh is the ideal type of the American blonde and characteristic of her name, possesses much charm and grace of her native type.

"It is hard to give a casual observer even a faint idea of the youth, beauty and grace that permeates the chorus. At any rate, let it be known that these celebrated New York pink of perfection girls of class very rarely if ever travel. In New York they have their own Bohemian homes where they are as care free as the air they breathe where their own natural-born instincts travel as the unforseen presents—they are mostly convent or college bred girls, members of our best families of the East and as a consequence, independent or their everyday theatrical toil results. They join the chorus for experience, worldly and theatrical, because it gives them time to advance from study and experience at the same time."

"A REALLY STRIKING DRAMA"
Of course, all premieres in New York this week were subordinate to the coming of Mrs. Fiske, who presented Edward Sheldon's "The High Road," Tuesday night. Mrs. Fiske was responsible for bringing young Mr. Sheldon to the favorable attention of the American public by enacting the title role in his play of "The Glum Salvation Nell," and she is equally successful in making a really striking drama out of the playwright's more mature story of a woman who battles heroically and successfully against a sorry past.

In "The High Road," which has the subtitle of "A Disgrace in Five Parts," Mrs. Fiske is seen as the heroine in five different stages and ages of her career. The development of the character of Mary Page over a period of several years is depicted as only a woman of Mrs. Fiske's wonderful resources and the dramatic instincts could have presented it, and she is assisted by an admirable supporting company.—New York Correspondence, Washington Post.

Mrs. Fiske comes to the Auditorium in the near future.

SEAT SALE FOR "THE PINK LADY"

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith of Hudson avenue entertained at dinner Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tobin of the Blal-Tobin Dramatic company. One of the most interesting events of the week in a social way was the masquerade surprise party on Mr. "Bud" Schaller at his home on Wednesday evening. The party was planned and carried out by Mrs. Schaller, assisted by the social committee of the "bunch." One of the features of the evening was the springing of the most up-to-date jokes by the noted comedienne, Mrs. M. Keefe (better known as Mother Keefe), of which "Bud" Ryan was the victim. Another interesting feature was the melodious selections played on the piano by Messrs. Charles Pfeiffer, "Bud" Ryan, Earl Evans, Misses Ethel Boner, Esther Montgomery, and Mildred Irwin and on the violin by "Bud" Schaller, Paul Pfeiffer, George Cousino, John Criticos and Misses Margaret Burrows, Minnie Stauch, Eva Richards and Mrs. Schaller. After this a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Schaller and Mrs. Keefe, assisted by "Bud" Ryan and Walter Rauck. After lunch had been served the music was resumed, after which several tricks were demonstrated by Prof. L. B. Dowd. Those taking part in the affair were Misses Minnie Stauch, Ethel Boner, Eva Richards, Helen Stauch, Mildred Irwin, Alma Hamlin, Katherine Stoepler, Esther Montgomery, Louise Schaller and Margaret Burrows of Indianapolis, Messrs. Paul Pfeiffer, "Bud" Ryan, George Marie Cousino, John Criticos, "Shorty" Evans, "Bud" Schaller, Leroy B. Dowd, Harold Aumiller, Charles Pfeiffer and Walter Rauck. All departed for their homes at a late hour, after having expressed themselves as having had a very enjoyable evening.

Charles Heipley invites you to help him celebrate his birthday on Thursday, January 16th, 321 North Fourth street, 4:30 to 9:00 o'clock p. m.

In response to the above, about thirty boys and girls gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heipley in North Fourth street last evening and certainly did help Master Charles celebrate his natal day, games and music being the program of the evening.

At 8:30 the young people were invited to the dining room where a table cloth covered the floor and lunch was served in picnic fashion, each person being given a nicely packed box containing many good things to eat.

After lunch the host was called to another room where he was presented with many pretty gifts.

Master Charles will have much reason to remember his fourteenth birthday and those who helped him celebrate it, being the following: Misses Helen Hohl, Elizabeth McWilliams, Marcelle Maybold, Elizabeth Adam, Maxine Davis, Gertrude Eagan, Stella Nold, Frances Swern, Ethel Brickle, Regina Dwyer, Adelle Kos, Messrs. Bob Africa, Merwin Bingham, Robert Swingle, Dwight Pittner, Carl Swern, Glen O'Hara, Paul Downer, Frank Kuster, Max Binder, Joe Homer, Maurice Kennedy, and Charles Greeley.

Mr. and Mrs. Heipley were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Kintch, Mrs. Jos. Nold and Miss Kathryn Shaughnessy.

The San Sude club will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Byron Dickson of Locust street, where they will be entertained by Mrs. Dickson's sister, Miss Allison.

The officers and committees of the Young People's Society of the Fifth Street Baptist church gathered at the home of Mrs. G. W. Cordray of West Main street Thursday evening to hold a business session and to surprise the pastor, Dr. H. O. Rowland. He was unaware of any such plan and was surprised and pleased when he was ushered into the room where the young people were assembled.

The hours following were most profitable and enjoyable, no one knowing better than Dr. Rowland how to entertain young people, with his storehouse of jokes and amusing stories from experience. The hour passed away all too quickly and a delicious lunch was served in picnic style from boxes prepared by the self-invited guests. At a late hour all departed declaring they never had spent a more pleasant evening.

Last night at Moser's Hall, in the West End, the Phi Sigma Chi fraternity entertained its members and ladies with another of the enjoyable "poverty dances," the quaint and odd costumes adding to the evening's pleasure. A delightful program of twenty numbers was furnished by Rosebrough's orchestra, and punch was dispensed during the dance hours of 8 to 12.

Mrs. H. L. Pierce was the hostess to the B. B. club at her home on Western avenue last evening, needlework proving an enjoyable pastime. Guests of the club were Miss Emma Guinsler of Junction City and the Misses Edith Welsh and Gertrude Keyes. The next meeting of this aggressive social organization will be in the nature of a mask party at the home of Miss Ada Fletcher on North Pine street.

The Junior Loyal Girls were entertained at the home of Miss Blanch Hoover, their teacher, at 162 West Locust street. There were nineteen present. They held a brief business meeting after which they had a very pleasant time together. Light refreshments were served.

GLEE CLUB IN GOOD CONCERT LAST EVENING

The Denison Glee club gave its annual concert at the High School auditorium last evening before an audience that showed its appreciation of the students' ability by their repeated demands for encores. Musically, the offerings were very pleasing, the organization showing thorough training and creating an appearance that speaks well for the calibre of the Baptist school. Solos by James Wolfe and readings by R. W. Cochran proved admirable features of the program.

Undoubtedly the most entertaining feature, however, was a one act comedy, "The Night Before the Game," written by Elbert Babbs, a Denison student. The comedy is an admirable interpretation of college spirit, teeming with fun, showing the influence of the Denison ideals on the minds of the students. To say that the work compares well with that of George Ade might seem to be fulsome praise. At any rate, it has many of George Ade's early writings backed clear off the boards," and this fact speaks well for the future success of the Denison writer.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness, Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvellously beautiful hair, which, when loosed from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of a rich, silky, glossy texture and of a color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvelous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin actually leaving the scalp bald in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in color, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics but they were all of no use and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow and was recommended by a well-known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Eas Lom and Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My hair quickly began to grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of two months. I think that any woman who gets long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it, will be as delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it. Please use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired. (Advertisement.)"

GIRL COLLEGIANS PLAY BASKETBALL HERE TUESDAY

The Boston College team of Boston, Mass., a team composed of college girls, will play against the Newark team at H. K. Hall next Tuesday night. This game promises to be a real attraction as this is the only girls' team known playing according to the A. A. U. rules. As a general thing, girls' teams are governed by a different set of rules, one feature of which gives each team six players. The game will be called at 7:30 o'clock on a court of cement or asphaltum in the city. In order to pay expenses, it was found necessary to charge 25 cents admission to this game.

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN by Barbara Boyd

Minting Silence SILENCE, to many, seems so much like nothingness, that to indulge in it, in this busy rushing life of ours, seems a waste of time. But silence if used rightly can be transmuted into gold, the gold of character, the gold of aspiration, the gold of action. So that it will pay even the most commercial to study a little this matter of indulging in silence. The person who is never still, who rushes hither and thither, who decides important matters in the hurly-burly of living, does not get the most or the best out of life. Silence is needed to see life truly, to make the wisest decisions. The Orientals have a phrase, "Go Into the Silence," that is worth thinking upon. At once it suggests peace to the troubled spirit, clearness of vision to the perplexed. To withdraw one's self from the world, to be alone with one's self, to go where there is absolute quiet, and to think, is of value to every life. And it would be well if more of us did it often. If the busy mother would go into the silence and there, with all disturbing elements out of sight and hearing, think upon the problems that have arisen in the day's round, she will solve them more wisely. If the business woman will go into the silence and there look at life in its true perspective, the irritations of the day that now seem so big will drop into their place, and life will become serene and sweet. For in the silence come soundless voices from the higher realms, that tell us the true meaning of life and give us right guidance. Carlyle says thought will not work except in silence, and the thought that comes to us in the great silence, when we open our mind to the infinite, is the thought of the infinite mind. And this is the most precious thing in all the world. So that we can, if we will, mint, in the silence, true golden coin that will get for us the best things of life. For in the silence, we touch the very source of being, we become one with the great current of life flowing through the spheres, and we bring out with us from the silence a portion of its power. So though it may seem foolishness to some, and a waste, to take a little time and go apart, it will certainly pay,—pay from a mere worldly point of view, for it will enable us to handle more successfully the problems that arise in our day's work, and pay enormously from a spiritual point of view, for it will give us glimpses of the purpose of life. And when comes an understanding of this, comes joy unspeakable. For the understanding of life is the light that transfigures it with beauty and makes living sheer happiness. Barbara Boyd.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Little Gnome Who Didn't Like Coal

JACK said with great pride: "I carried some coal today. Dinah has the rheumatism. And tomorrow she is going to bake me a little pie because I helped her."

"And I'm going to get a pie, too," added Evelyn. "I helped Dinah set the table."

"Ah, indeed, no wonder Dinah is so fond of you! And because you have been so kind to her I will tell you a story about the little gnomes, the elves who work down in the earth digging out gems for the gnome king."

"These gnomes are, so I've heard, funny little elves who wear leather hats, short breeches and long leather boots with pointed toes."

"Every day the king gives out orders as to what each of his little workmen shall do."

"Nock and Nick were two of the brightest little gnomes. One evening the king gnome said:

"Tomorrow, Nock, I want you to go to work and pile up those shining black stones under that little brown house on the hill."

"Nick, you may scatter some of the clear white stones which sparkle under the king's palace."

"Oh," exclaimed Nock; "I don't care to work with common old coal stones."

"The king paid no attention to Nock's grumble, so the elf started to work piling up coal under the little house on the hill. In the evenings Nock would go up and sit in the air to watch the stars. Then he learned something about the folks who lived in the little brown house. They were little Jamie and Mary, who had no one else to take care of them but their grandma, with whom they lived."

"When winter came Nock heard the children complain of being cold, and so he brought up a few lumps of coal and scattered them on the ground near the cottage door."

"And when the children's grandma found them she thought it so very odd they should be there that she asked some one to dig there and see if they could find any more coal. And they did—a whole mine full."

"It happened that fuel was very scarce and high, and the old lady sold the coal and became so rich that the king, who found a few diamonds under his park, said he wished he had found coal instead of diamonds in his land."

"And when Nock heard this he laughed at Nick, who was no longer vain because he worked with diamonds."

"Said the wise old gnome king, 'If coal were as scarce as diamonds kings would wear it in their crowns.'"

SPALDING RECORD OUT.

Spalding's Official Baseball Record for 1913, edited by John B. Foster, is published today. This is the sixth year of the Spalding Record, and the publishers have presented to their readers more accurate and interesting statistics of the national pastime than in any previous number of the series.

The records of the season of 1912 are very attractive, as compared with those of preceding years, owing to the disposition on the part of some of the other players to crowd more closely some of the records of old than has always been the case in the history of the annual campaigns for the major league pennants.

Part I, comprising the Records of 1912, and in this section will be found the Major League Statistics for 1912; Miscellaneous Baseball Records; Official Averages for 1912 of the American Association, American League, and about forty other leagues throughout the United States.

There will also be found a chapter on the Philadelphia City series; another on How Pickers Shatter Records; the Spalding Baseball Hall of Fame; the World's Series, and the Year in Baseball.

Not as much money as expected was deposited in the collection pans yesterday at the Sunday tabernacle. The total for the day was much less than on the corresponding day last week.

Columbus, O., Jan. 17.—Confession of faith was made by 169 persons at the Sunday tabernacle last night.

When he was through with his sermon, one of the best he has delivered, Rev. Mr. Sunday announced he was going to do as he did the night before, extend the invitation to the unsaved and put it directly up to them to come forward and take their stand for Christ without any solicitation by personal workers. No sooner were the words out of his mouth and the choir had begun to sing "Jesus, I Am Coming Home."

than persons proceeded to march down the aisle.

Two blind girls were among the first to go forward. They had gone to the tabernacle with about 125 others from the State School for the Blind. When the invitation was extended the two girls rose and stated their desire to accept Christ. They were conducted to the platform and the pleasant smile on their faces touched the hearts of those who saw them as they offered their hands to the evangelist.

Rev. Mr. Sunday was deeply impressed. As the girls were ushered to seats, he stood erect and shouted these words:

Two blind girls have given their hearts to Christ. God pity you people with two good eyes who can't see your duty.

It was not long afterward until others from the State School for the Blind presented themselves at the platform and professed conversion. Several children were among the converts of the evening and one of these presented a sight that attracted the evangelist and touched a tender spot in his heart. William Anderson was the name the little chap gave and he was the last in a row of boys who attended the Mound street Mission that marched to the front. As the boy was lifted by Rev. Mr. Peacock so he could shake hands with Rev. Mr. Sunday, the latter quickly observed his clothing.

"Get that boy's name and address and I'll get him some clothes tomorrow," the evangelist instructed.

Little William said he was seven years old and that his home is in Canal street. He was told to go to the Dennison Hotel this morning at 9 o'clock, when Rev. Mr. Sunday will have him dressed in a new suit of clothing.

The audience last night taxed the

He was full of ginger throughout his discourse, which was a continuous plea for sinners to turn away from their wrong-doing.

"Mother's Day" will be the occasion for thousands of persons going to the tabernacle this afternoon. Rev. Mr. Sunday's sermon on "Mother" is one of his best.

BISHOP OF PORTO RICO AT TRINITY CHURCH

On Sunday morning at the 10:30 service, the Rt. Rev. James H. Van Buren, D. D., Bishop of Porto Rico, will be present and preach the sermon. Bishop VanBuren was consecrated Bishop of Porto Rico, shortly after its occupation by the United States and has laid broad and lasting foundations for the work of the church in Porto Rico and the adjacent islands.

While in Newark, he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wright.

WOODS ARE FULL OF YOUNG BASEBALL PHENOMENONS.

Just now the woods are full of young baseball phenomons, who, according to the scribes, are destined to make the season of 1913 the all-time best in the history of the major leagues. But many are called, and few are chosen, and, also, where

By the paytron saint of Hetty Green I wont go that, sed pop.

Then perhaps youd jest bettir stick to 2 segars a nite, sed ma.

are the phenomons of yesterday? Answering the latter question, it may be said that most of them are still in the bush leagues. The fireside fans demand sustenance, and so each winter brings its crops of comers who are greater than Ty Cobb. Statistics, always, dry, dull and sad, prove that not one in a dozen of the great finds make good in fast company. Of the scores of players that will be tried out in the next few months, only a few will be found good enough for a place on a big league salary list, while the majority of them could not stick in the International League or the American Association, and not a few of them would find the next too fast in a class B aggregation. Heartbreaking disappointments are coming to a lot of lads who are now dreaming dreams that will never be realized. "Tis sad, tis very sad, but then, as Mr. Schopenhauer the German, has remarked, life is very sad at best."

PROF. MIKE DONOVAN A CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Half a century ago, Mike Donovan, the sturdy old fighter, enlisted in the Seventy-first Illinois Regiment and marched away to the front to begin his career as a battler. After the war he became a pugilist and won his way to the top of the mid-weight heap. "After scrapping with a gun," said Prof. Mike recently, "fighting with bare fists seemed easy, and boxing with gloves a real luxury." For nearly 30 years Donovan has taught the manly art to the members of the New York Athletic Club.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN'S BIRTHDAY BRINGS AN ATTACK OF MUCKRAKING.

Printers and newspapermen, in a number of American cities will celebrate the 207th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin today. Great as he was as an inventor, statesman, ambassador, author, savant and scientist, Franklin's claim to immortality rests more on his achievements as a printer and editor. In the latter capacity he gave voice to a principle that should be emblazoned in every editorial sanctum. As a young man he founded the Pennsylvania Gazette and soon made it a power in Philadelphia journalism. He was approached by one of the "malefactors of great wealth" of his day and urged to adopt a certain editorial policy that would benefit the gentleman of means. In his reply to this proposition, Franklin wrote that he had considered the project after making a meal of a penny loaf of bread and spending the night on the floor in his great coat. He added:

"From this regimen I feel no inconvenience whatever. Finding I can live in this manner, I have formed the determination never to prostitute my press to corruption and abuse of this kind for the sake of gaining a more comfortable subsistence."

While this policy resulted in temporary hardships, it paid in the end, and at 42 Franklin was able to retire from business with a fortune of $75,000 and an assured income from his publishing business of $5000 a year, and to devote the remainder of his long life to science, literature and the service of his country.

Great as he was, Franklin has not escaped the attention of the muckrakers, who have pointed out that he was a free-thinker in religion and have alleged that much of his literary work was obscure and indecent, which was indeed, a prevalent vice among the men of letters of Franklin's time. If Franklin wrote things that would now be considered "naughty," he was but following the example of Voltaire and a thousand lesser lights of eighteenth century letters.

In a recent book, the Rev. Dr. Robert W. McLaughlin of Brooklyn declares that many of Franklin's works could not be published nowadays, except in an expurgated form. Mayor Gaynor of New York, the world's champion letter writer, took exception to this statement and wrote the author to tell him so. Dr. McLaughlin replied:

"You say, 'I do not understand this. I do not see in them a single thing to expurgate.' Neither do I, for the simple reason that the offensive language is not permitted in the standard editions. The editions that are published today are those of Jared Sparks, published in 1842; John Bigelow's, published in 1887; and A. H. Smyth's, published in 1907. Smyth's edition in 10 volumes is the latest and most complete, containing 385 letters and 40 articles not previously printed. Yet Smyth says, Vol. I, page 171: 'Unfortunately, it is impossible without offense to quote many of his briefer paragraphs.' His 'salt imagination' delights in greasy jests and tales of bawdry. Among the manuscripts in the Library of Congress and in the columns of his newspaper and the introductions of 'Poor Richard' are productions of his pen, the printing of which would not be tolerated by the public sentiment of the present day."

Start Your Baby With Sound Health

Regular Bowel Movement From Childhood On Prevents Future Serious Diseases.

We cannot all start life with the advantage of money, but every child born is entitled to the heritage of good health. Through unfortunate ignorance or carelessness in the feeding of a baby its tiny stomach may become deranged. The disorder spreads to the bowels and before the mother realizes it the two chief organs on which the infant's comfort and health depend are causing it great suffering. If the condition is allowed to continue grave ailments often result.

There is, however, no occasion for alarm, and the sensible thing to do—and it should be done instantly—is to give the baby a small dose of a mild laxative-remedy. In the opinion of a great many people, among them such well-known persons as the parents of Dixie Dudley, Magnolia Ark., the proper remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Earl Dudley writes: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine I ever used. It cured my baby of flatulency colic when the doctors failed. It cured my husband of constipation. My home shall never be without Syrup Pepsin." It is a pleasant-tasting laxative, which every person likes. It is mild, non-gripping, and contains that most excellent of all digestants, Pepsin.

This remedy is especially intended for infants, children, women, old people and all others to whom harsh cathartics, salt waters, pills, etc., are distressing. In fact, in the common disorders of life, such as constipation, liver trouble, indigestion.

NUMEROUS ARE CHARGES AGAINST JOSEPH DERMER

Before night, if the machinery of the law moves with the alacrity that has characterized it today, Joe Dermer, who has been living at Wilkins Corners in Mary Ann township, will be languishing in the county jail under charges so numerous and variegated that it will take days to straighten them out and weeks to try them.

As a matter of fact Joe is already in the custody of the officers of the jail, but from the looks of things the impending charges against him have not all been filed yet.

Joe didn't come to jail willingly. Let it be said, but under the extreme and persevering coercion of Emmett Forgraves, special constable from the court of Squire D. M. Jones.

Yesterday C. W. Miller, a Baltimore and Ohio railroad employe, filed an affidavit for a search warrant, charging Dermer with the theft of a double-barreled shot gun worth $32. Special Constable Forgraves went after him and brought him in, incidentally bringing with him the gun in question, having beaten Joe to it when the latter sought to conceal it.

This morning, in the court of Squire Jones, with L. C. Russell prosecuting the case and J. E. Lingafelter defending the prisoner, the matter was called for trial. In the midst of the case the defendant decided to waive examination and he was bound over to com-biliousness, headaches, and the various other disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, nothing is more suitable than this mild laxative-remedy, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Two generations of people are using it today, and thousands of families keep it constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the size bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

mon pleas court under a bond of $100. No sooner had this been done than he was re-arrested, this time on the affidavit of John and Theodore Parker, who charged him with breaking into a meat house and stealing a ham, two pieces of side meat and two pieces of spare ribs, all valued at $8.

A second search warrant from the court had enabled the special constable and the plaintiffs to find the meat concealed among the household effects of the Dermers. The household goods happened to be in a wagon along the road in Mary Ann township for the very good reason that the ill-fated defendant had but recently been expelled from the house in which he had been living.

On the second charge Dermer also waived examination and was again bound over. This time the bond was raised to $300.

The two local charges do not entirely complete the array of accusations against the prisoner, for he is further held for the court in Mary Ann township on a charge of having annexed a suit of clothes of ownership other than his own.

This afternoon it was said that the end was not yet as still another affidavit is in the making. The charge in this case has not been made public.

The prisoner, against whom all these charges have been filed, has had something of a reputation in his peculiar line and has already had some previous police experience.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

FRUIT SUGAR ANTIDOTES AUTO-INTOXICATION.

Professor Metchnikoff has discovered that sugar, converted from starch foods or the sugar of fruits, has a beneficial effect in antidoting auto-intoxication by retarding the growth of harmful bacteria in the intestine. Probably no fruit is better for this purpose than the apple eaten in a natural state. An exclusive diet of apples for a week or longer greatly reduces the number of bacteria in the excretion. Such a diet is beneficial in many cases. Any acid serves as an antidote to auto-intoxication, but the best is the malic acid of the apple or lactic acid of buttermilk.

A distinguished Russian physiological chemist has found that milk requires less secretion, than any other food, for its digestion. Meat requires more gastric secretion than any other food and, when bread is eaten with meat, the secretion is more copious than when either is eaten alone. As digestion is dependent upon secretion, the conclusion is drawn that benefit results from eating two or more foods together. But Pavlov has already shown that each food requires its own peculiar secretion, and it has recently been discovered that diabetes and perhaps cancer and many other serious diseases are due to disorganization of the secretions, this discovery appears to be a strong argument in favor of the monodist.

SLEIGH, NOT A MUD BOAT, WAS STOLEN

What use any one would have for a sleigh under present conditions, which conditions have prevailed for more than a week, is a puzzle which the police department right now is seeking to solve. Mrs. Jennie Brown of 115 South Fourth street reported that such a vehicle was stolen from her premises and asks that the police make an effort to locate the property and the thief. The absence of the snow which is generally regarded as a necessary adjunct to the operation of a sleigh, embroils the alleged theft in a veil of mystery and the best sleuths of the department will be asked to probe the matter carefully. Patrolman Abbott says that there would be little difficulty if the article stolen had been a mud boat but he has his doubts about the department's ability to locate a sleigh stolen when the streets are almost running with mud.

EXPECT BIG CROWDS AT RECEPTION

A final dusting was given the reception rooms, dormitories and gymnasium of the Young Women's Christian Association this morning, and everything is now in readiness for the housewarming and "get-together meeting" to be held in the new quarters from 3 to 5 this afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock this evening. Everyone interested in the Association's work, and especially the men and women who have pledged their financial support to the movement are urged to visit the Robinson building and renew their friendship with the various committees whose labors have proven so successful.

"We're all rather tired after our hard work," smiled Miss Constance McCorkle this morning, as she rubbed a streak of dust over her right cheek with one hand and helped move a heavy table with the other. "But it's been worth the while, and the girls of Newark are going to have a home that they may well be proud of."

Her expression proved the sentiment of every member of the house committee, which has been extremely busy in preparation for the opening function.

The girls of the Business Girls' Club are especially grateful for the activities of the various committees, and are extending their sincere thanks for the co-operation in the past which has made their institution a success. Most of the girls will assume rooms at the Y. W. C. A. at once, their housekeeper, Mrs. Inman, having accepted the position of housekeeper of the association. On Jan. 1, when the affairs of the club were concluded, every bill ever contracted by the institution had been paid, according to the club's records, and if anyone has been forgotten, a gentle reminder will result in prompt payment of any indebtedness. All of the house furnishings contributed to or for the club house have been turned over to the house committee of the Y. W. C. A., and everything available to the needs of the association has been installed in the new building.

"It is with great satisfaction that the club committee sees the work they began in a small way taken up in a manner which insures its broader usefulness to the community, and offers something of value to every girl in our city," said a member of the club this morning.

Don't attend any circumstances, fail to attend the housewarming, though, for it is only by persistent co-operation that any enterprise, and particularly one which is based upon Christian fellowship, can be carried to a successful attainment.

FINDLAY AFTER ANOTHER CENSUS

Findlay, Jan. 17.—Believing that the official census taker has underrated the population of this city, the Findlay Business Men's Association, at its next meeting, may make arrangements to take another census, believing the city has more than 18,000 population, instead of 14,538, the official figures for the census of 1910. In 1909 Findlay had a population of 17,616, the loss in the ten years being 2758.

HORSE LEFT AT LIVERY STABLE IS UNCLAIMED

A brown mare, showing evidences of having been driven hard, was left Wednesday night at the Whitehead livery stable by a man who neglected to give his name to the proprietors. His instructions to the stableman were to leave the harness on the animal, as he would return shortly. The buggy was a Yale make and was liberally splashed with mud, inside and out, indicating that the man had done some hard driving. Up to noon Friday no one had claimed the outfit. Police headquarters was notified Friday, and an effort will be made to locate the owner. The mare weighs about 900 pounds and is apparently 15 years old. One hind leg was swollen and showed evidence of having recently been blistered.
